

The Gynecologic Cancer InterGroup (GCIG), Cervix Cancer Research Network (CCRN) is announcing a call for proposals to support small research initiatives which are aimed to improve the outcomes for women with cervical cancer in Low and Middle Income Countries (LMIC) where the disease is a burden and where national research groups are not yet established.

Details:

- The award amount will be up to $5000 USD.
- Candidates affiliated with a CCRN site will be given priority.
- Any successful candidate, if not already affiliated with a CCRN site, will be expected to have their site join CCRN by completing the CCRN pre-qualifying questionnaire (PQQ).

Criteria:

- 1) candidates will be clinicians in LMIC's, who treat women with cervical cancer;
- 2) the research proposals will be assessed and approved by the CCRN Executive Committee;
- 3) all research proposals related to the management of women with cervical cancer will be considered and include (but not exclusive to):
  - Retrospective analysis
  - Prospective studies
  - Translational research
  - Quality of Life research
  - Palliative care
  - Radiation quality assurance
- 4) the candidate is expected to publish the results of the research funded by this grant

Applicant Contact Information:

Name:

Medical/Research Institute:

Email address:

Phone Number:

- Please attach research proposal, budget and cv of principle investigator
- Include evidence of Good Clinical Practice (GCP) training.
- For those unfamiliar with GCP, we will provide links for online training platforms.

Submit application to:

Katherine Bennett, GCIG-CCRN Operations Manager, +1 613 539-6456

cervixcancerresearchnetwork@gmail.com